ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL

Andover, Massachusetts

Three years seem such a long time
When you're standing on the threshold somewhat uncertain.

But the first quivering steps spark
A stream of action measured not in years . . .

But in experiences.

Aud. Coll.
R

Caught in the inertia of change,
The moments of exultation,

Of anguish

Of relief

Of loneliness,

Of happiness,

Blend into a single force.

Within the space of three short years,
Nations clash, populations multiply,
Buildings rise and, in this flow of change

You become an individual.

Dedication

We, the Class of 1968, dedicate this yearbook to you, Mr. Dorsey, as a token of our deep appreciation for your unselfish devotion of your time and efforts. Your teaching has shown us the interdependence of physical alertness, coordination, and mental agility. We have learned to respect fitness of both mind and body. Your excellent coaching of the Boys' Gym Team and the Cross-country Track Team has guided them to continuous victories and our school to state-wide fame. Your advice has been honest and factual, reflecting your understanding of our questions and problems and has contained the occasional humor needed to make us realize that all seemingly serious events can and should be faced with hope.

We are proud to give this book to a teacher who is also our friend. We will remember the help and assurance you gave so freely.

To A New School . . .

On February 2, 1968, a dreary winter day, the dreams born in the spring of 1966 finally became reality as the student body piled books into brown paper bags and transferred the nucleus of their present education to the new high school. Shrouded in a thick haze, the school loomed ahead of the students as a challenge, a mystery, and for most the beginning of a new academic attitude.

First impressions of the school's entrance varied widely; without a doubt, as we walked through the front door, some thought or opinion, favorable or not, flashed through our minds.

The windows on both sides of the front hall, overlooking the cafeteria, are still a popular subject for discussion, as are the poured-cement walls. The cement was modeled to resemble wood paneling and has produced a uniquely modern effect in the school. This practice is becoming a major part of architecture as it is being adopted in colleges, high schools, and other public buildings throughout the world.

Proceeding up the stairs into the main lobby, the large blue banner proclaiming the name of the school in gold letters was one of the first things to catch the eye. Perhaps for the first time many realized then that the long-awaited move had been accomplished and that a new building with opportunities to acquire modern, useful knowledge confronted the student. This was somewhat of a challenge—a challenge to see if Andover High School students could realize the necessity and excitement of learning and strive to achieve high goals in education.

The introduction of bright colored walls, although seemingly gaudy or useless, is supposed to have a psychological effect on the student, awakening his senses and thus giving him the necessary awareness for studying.

One of the aids to reaching the higher learning objectives is the departmental division of the school with new educational devices which provide the possibility of concentrated and specialized work. The language department now has a language lab to develop, through the use of tapes, listening comprehension and fluency in foreign languages. Industrial arts has acquired much new machinery and tools, all designed to give the student applicable knowledge and experience in the industrial fields. The science labs have extensive, up-to-date equipment which affords the students a deeper explanation and understanding of life. So is it true of the math lab which has been furnished with electric calculators and a small computer. The business department also has new electric typewriters and other apparatus making this course more interesting and useful in the future.

Each section has a conference room to be used for seminars, group discussions, or teachers' meetings. In addition there is a general large group room capable of seating one class. This room also lends itself well to group teaching, lectures, films, and discussions and is a vital part of the new academic atmosphere.

The library is a truly impressive part of the school. It is equipped with a general reading section, study cubicles for more privacy, and other added facilities. The book capacity is twelve thousand volumes, more than sufficient for the projected school population of eighteen hundred students. The tapes and films supplied by the audio-visual department have been catalogued like books to facilitate general school use.

The athletic department has been furnished with a huge, beautiful gym with partitions to divide the floor space into sections according to the needs of various activities. The playing fields are surely adequate for the highest attendance at the school. There are two baseball fields, a track, a football field, and tennis courts to provide recreation areas not only for the students but also for the town as a whole.

In all, the new Andover High School has made available to all future students the chance for a worthwhile education through ultra-modern facilities and new curriculum plans. Yet, to make this knowledge attainable is all the teachers can do and the deeper research and retainment of facts is left to the student. With the almost unlimited possibilities of successful learning in this school, does it not seem only reasonable that students capitalize on them?

The students who spent the first semester of 1968 in the school exhibited their ability to adjust easily to a different environment and their eagerness to learn and thus to succeed.

It started as noise and dust,

Then there were empty halls . . .

and turned into a foundation and mud.

At last a building stood waiting.

and the skeleton of a building.

We departed from the old school . . .

It was a long walk . . .

in more ways than one.

in search of the new one and a challenge awaited . . .

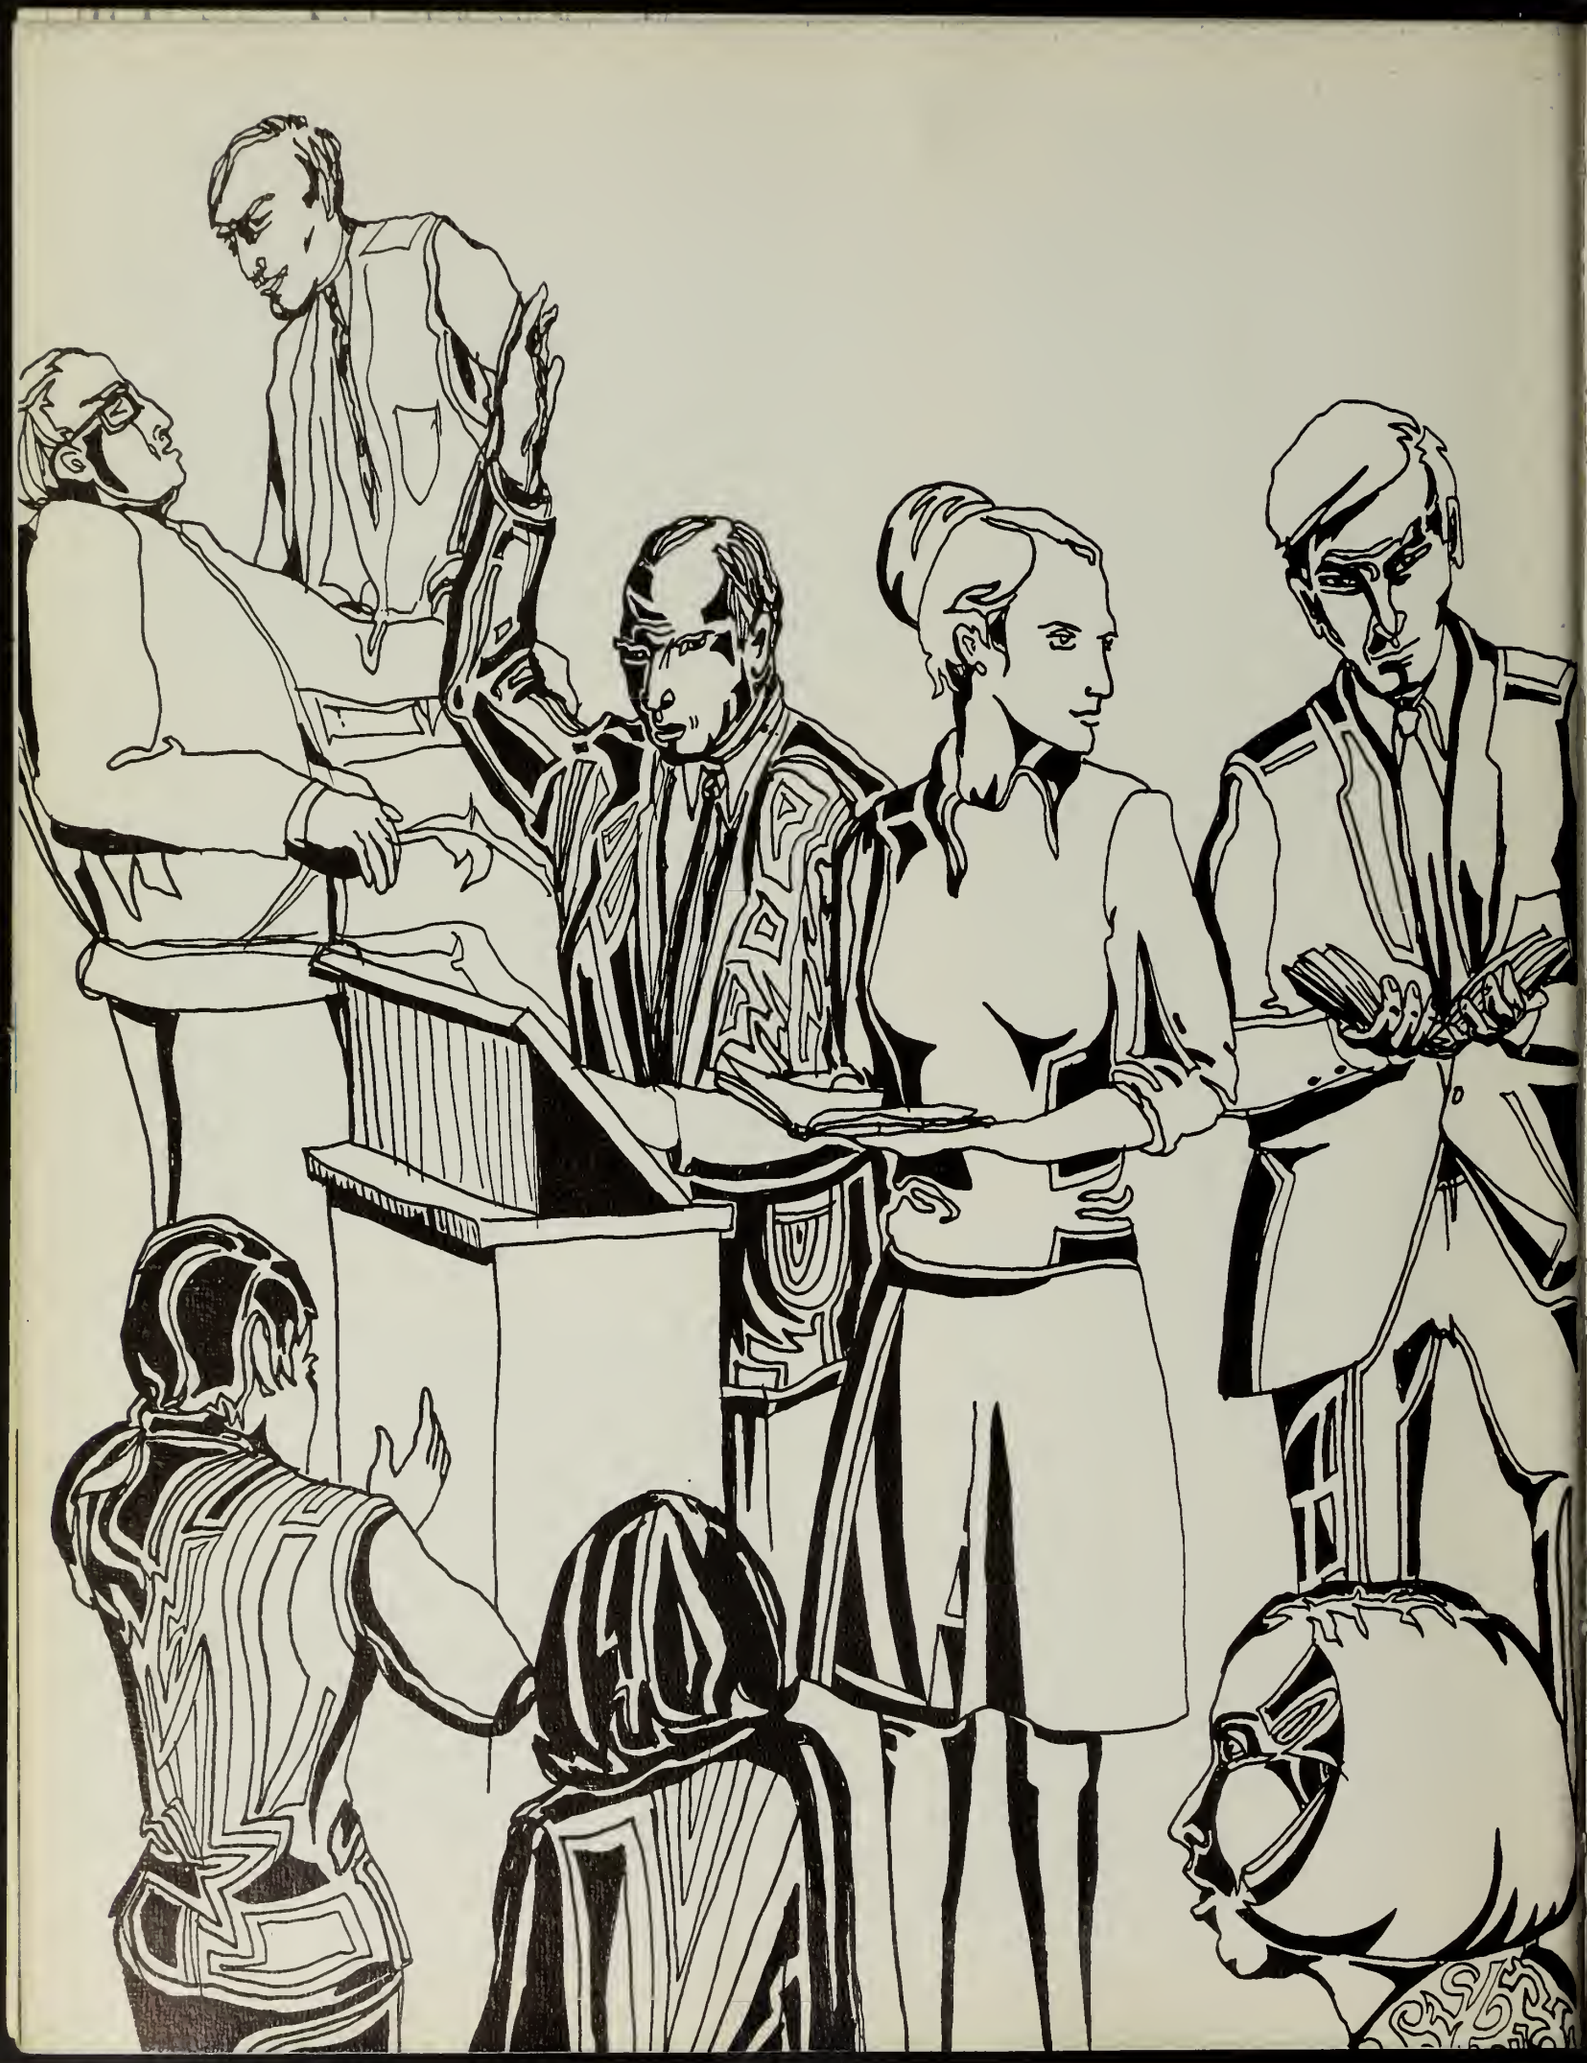
But after nearly two years, we were welcomed into our new school by Mr. Wormwood.



Teacher—

A figure standing

Against the blackboard background,

With chalk-dusted hands

Stirring the air with emphatic gestures.

A figure seated,

Surrounded by young students,

Treading the tender ground

Between authority and friendship.

A figure moving,

Dressed in a sport's uniform,

Joining his extra hours with

Students' extra hours.

Teacher—

Instructor, advisor, counselor, coach.

JUNE 1968
UNIVERSITY OF

Things are changing
Now, as throughout our lives.
Yet,
this change we now face is different—
a greater,
more deciding one
than any other to date.
Our future is before us . . . and we change from dependent beings
to independent people.
This deviation from the accustomed disrupts our thoughts and baffles us.
Our confusion must be temporary . . .
we must continue
with confidence,
with determination,
and with pride.
Life has as yet shown us
comparably little. But,
we've seen and experienced
how to be independent.
Let us take this change
and meet it with success.

Reed Martin Sargent
April 24, 1950 — April 23, 1966

On the day before his sixteenth birthday, Reed Sargent was killed in a tragic, unnatural automobile accident. Reed was a wonderful, warm-hearted, fun-loving boy, who had a full and happy life ahead.

When such a tragic event takes place, it makes us, his classmates, pause to think of the preciousness of life, of the value of friendships, and of the hope to make this world a happier and gayer place in which to live, as Reed did in his few years here.

He was our friend and we will never forget him.

When students are juniors in high school they begin to think about what colleges they would like to attend. They face the formidable college boards in October, March, and May. They begin to fully realize the importance of good grades and active participation in school and community life. Under the leadership of the Junior Class officers, the class of 1969 has demonstrated its ambition and imagination in class projects and has participated actively in the life of the whole school. The class successfully sponsored a basketball game between the Harlem Diplomats and the faculty as a fund raising event. And, as each Junior class before it, sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom under the chairmanship of Beth Gower and Geoff Crossley.

As the members of the class of 1969 proudly wear their new class rings they can look forward confidently to a successful Senior year.

Roosevelt Acoff, Mark Ayres, Tom Adams, and Leon Sharpe monopolize on their free moments.

Dan Diggs, Ellis Rowe, and Clayton White exhibit their "musical" ability.

A Better Chance

What are we doing here? What are the goals of "A Better Chance"? We are sure that many Andover High School students are still asking themselves what our program is all about. We hope that some day they, as well as millions of other Americans, will understand our goals and the message behind the letters A.B.C.

School life is like a circle; we start school, finish school, go for vacations, and then start school again. As an A.B.C. student I cannot belong entirely to that circle. I remember the past, live the present, and wonder about the future, for I have witnessed areas of misery and disillusionment created by poverty, ignorance, and social barriers. These areas contain millions of human beings without much hope of escaping. The A.B.C. program is one way of breaking through the barriers which are isolating many social classes from one another. Most of us come from different backgrounds but we all have something in common. We have the will to learn, not only on academic terms, but in terms of ways of life and coexistence with one another.

The purpose of our being in Andover is not just to get "a better chance" and live in a middle class suburb. We are here because of a long failure in communication and understanding between different social classes. In order to solve many of today's problems, people must understand one another and A.B.C. is one way to achieve this. In addition, we have a moral commitment to the neighborhoods from which we come. The A.B.C. staff has faith that we will use our education to help others who haven't had it. The purposes and goals of our program are many and to understand them one must be involved in the program itself. Andover High has been involved and, in one year, we have shared school and outside activities, making them a part of ourselves.

The Sophomore class this year has made a fine adjustment to high school life. Under the leadership of their officers the class achieved financial stability by conducting of stationery sale and sponsoring the annual Sophomore Class dance. In addition, sophomores have contributed their work and ideas to school organizations and have actively participated in the sports program.

Because a new school has new happenings to report and a new environment to reflect. Imprint suggests an impression, and the school newspaper is a reflection of the thoughts, and activities of the students. Published eight times a year under the supervision of Cathy Palmer, Editor-in-Chief, the Imprint includes important news events, feature articles, student spotlights, sports reviews, student expresso, editorial comment and letters to the editor. New to the paper this year are a regular comic strip and classified advertisements. The policy of the Imprint is to review, discuss and announce the activities of the school.

The Andanno, Andover High School's yearbook, is designed to capture and preserve a year of high school life in all its aspects.

This year's staff, under the editorship of Virginia Campbell faced the task of presenting a new format to complement the exciting, new Andover High School. The size of the book was altered, new sections were added and the arrangement of some standard sections was revised.

The annual began under the advisorship of Mr. Louis Annese and, when Mr. Annese was appointed editor of Your Schools, the book came under the guidance of Mr. Wayne Mercer.

Honor Society

Two-Year Members

The National Honor Society at Andover High School is an outgrowth of similar organizations founded in colleges and universities to give recognition to those students who have maintained high scholastic standards and have served their schools as outstanding citizens. Membership in this organization is one of the highest honors our school can bestow upon a student.

Character, scholarship, leadership and service—these are the cardinal principles of the National Honor Society, and the goals toward which the members strive, individually, and as a group. As active citizens of Andover High the members have organized several money raising projects for scholarships such as a bakery sale and a dance. This year they also participated in the Eastern Massachusetts Association of National Honor Societies Convention.

Unlike previous years the candlelight ceremony this year was held in the evening. New members were given the pin, a key and a torch inscribed with the letters C.S.L.S. symbolizing the goal and the high standards of the National Honor Society toward which our chapter strives.

"I light the candle of education."

President David Konjoian leads the new members in the Honor Society pledge.

Student Council

President Joe Doherty

Student Council Officers

L. to r.: Linda Wacholder, treasurer; Joseph Hadam, Vice-President; Joseph Doherty, President; Linda Sagaser, Corresponding Secretary; Corinne Broderick, Recording Secretary.

The Student Council, an important part of school life, burst into life this year under the leadership of President, Joe Doherty; Vice President, Joe Hadam; Treasurer, Linda Wacholder; Corresponding Secretary, Linda Sagaser; and Recording Secretary, Corinne Broderick; and proved that the school administration working together with the council can produce student benefits.

This year the four year job of revising the council Constitution was completed. The most important change was the revising of the system of representation. Under the new process there would be one student elected to represent every fifty students in the class with the maximum according to the number in the smallest class. This provides equal power where under the previous plan, the larger class would have a greater number of homeroom representatives, thus giving them a larger voice in the council decisions.

The Pro-Tem government was abolished as an ineffective policy and it is now established that the new Student Council President will be elected in May.

During the fall, representatives from each class attended the Eastern Massachusetts Division of Student Councils where ideas, opinions, and plans were exchanged.

Also, the council reviewed the dress code and obtained more freedom for the students between classes.

In all, the Student Council has shown itself to be a strong link of communication between students and faculty.

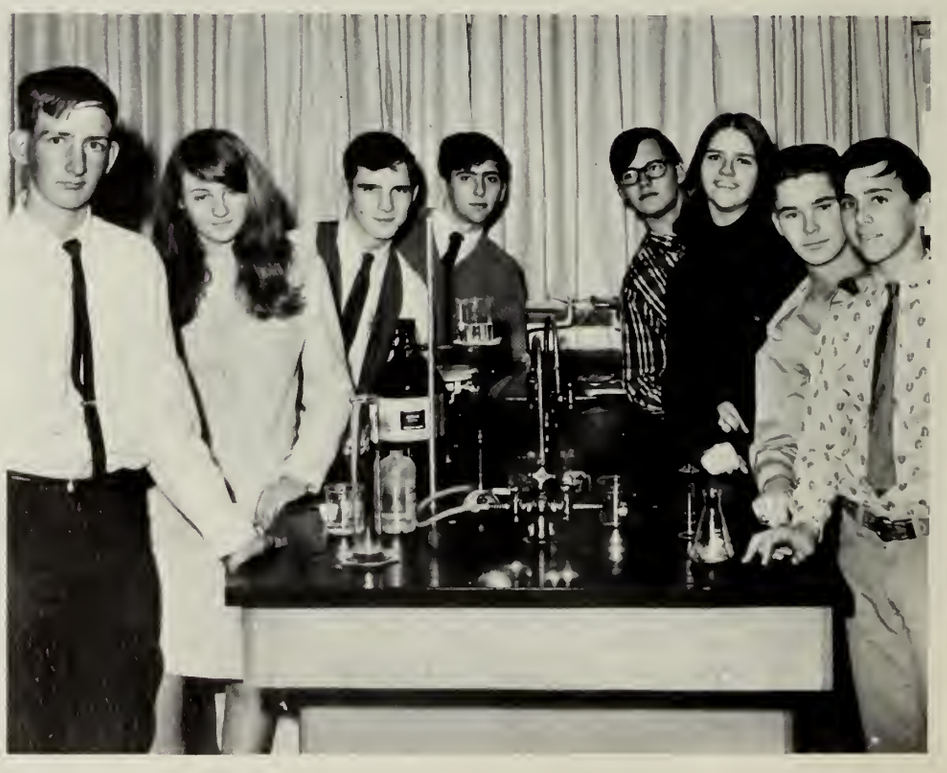
Joe hears the opinions of the council.

A measure receives an enthusiastic vote

Math Club

The Math Club, headed by President Bob Sattin and advised by Mr. Victor Walshe, is open to all students interested in mathematics. Each month ten members compete in math contests with neighboring schools. This club helps the student to develop keenness of mind and ability to calculate quickly and to work effectively with numbers.

Science Club



The Science Club's prime aim is to cultivate interest in all aspects of science and to involve all members in an informal education in the sciences. The club has guest speakers and goes on field trips to such places as Western Electric Company and the Lawrence Water Works. All club activities are under the supervision of the advisor, Mr. William Deacon.

Future Teachers of America

The purpose of the Future Teachers of America is to present to the student the opportunities open to him in the field of education. The club has sponsored field trips to various colleges and universities to assist students in choosing a school. Film strips, speakers, and group discussions also proved helpful. The club members also served at the Annual Teacher's Association Night dinner, sponsored College Career Night, and joined with the National Honor Society in forming a tutoring service. It is hoped that in the future, club members will be able to work with teachers and substitute for them in both high school and elementary levels. This year's officers include Co-Presidents, JoAnn Batchelder and Sue Vanesse; Secretary, Kathy Morissey; and Treasurer, Eve Greenberg. Miss Joan Lynch is the advisor.

International Relations Club

This politically oriented group of students, under the advisorship of Mr. McCusker and the leadership of Paul Hills, president, Barbara Jameson, vice-president, Linda Sagaser, secretary and Chandler Bailey, treasurer, is not only responsible for the sale and distribution of the school's New York Times, but is active in getting student participation in such events as the World Affairs Council, an annual trip to the United Nations in New York City, and the State Department sponsored "Model UN." The club expresses its concern as youths of the world community through its debates, films on controversial issues, and a host of guest speakers throughout the school year.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is a relatively new organization whose purpose is to stimulate interest in Spain and Spanish culture. The members held many activities which included parties celebrating Spanish Christmas, and Saints day. During a variety show, they entertained the student body by performing a skit with Spanish song and dance. This year, the members of the Spanish III class prepared a banquet with Spanish-style food at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Dorothy Goclowski. The present officers consist of President, Linda Kopatch; Vice-President, Joe Doherty; Treasurer, Allyson Brooks; and Secretary, Charlyce Bajek.

Latin Club

The Latin Club was instituted three years ago by a small group of students who had brought the idea from the well-established Latin Club at the junior high. Its main function is to present to interested students the background and customs of Rome in an informal and meaningful way.

Claire Dimlich, president, Lois Grant, vice-president, Kathy Morrissey, secretary-treasurer, and Jill Markert, committee chairman, organized this year's Roman banquet with the help of Miss Lynch, the advisor. This club also sponsors activities during Language Week.

American Field Service

AFS OFFICERS
(l. to r.) Eve Greenberg, Treasurer; Linda Sagaser, President; Susan Vogt, Vice-President; Jane Hamilton, Secretary.

Claudia plays piano for her AFS sister, Eve Greenberg.

Claudia confers with Andover's AFS president, Mrs. Vogt.

Claudia continues her record as a good student.

I have been an exchange student for only a half-year up until now, and so it is hard to describe my position, as well as that of thousands of others who came together with me.

I could go back to the past and explain AFS's beginning as ambulance groups during World War I and II or define it formally as a "private and nonprofit organization" but that wouldn't be enough. American Field Service is much more and its full meaning is explained by groups of students from all over the world, proudly called AFS'ers and united by one feeling no matter what their nation, race or creed.

This feeling started as soon as we were notified about our scholarships; all of a sudden we felt automatically involved in the AFS spirit. I don't mean that our personalities change, but something indefinable is added to our lives when we become part of AFS. It may be the idea of getting to know people and making them know about our countries as well as ourselves; it may be the purpose of bringing understanding throughout the nations in order to create the dream of civilization; it may be the realization that human beings are the same no matter where they come from and that they are all able and willing to try to achieve peace on earth.

Because of all these reasons I have confidence in this program and though I may not be sure of what one student can do, I understand the power of thousands of teenagers shouting in unison every year:

"Walk together, talk together all ye peoples of the earth; then, and only then shall ye have peace."

Outward Bound

Senior Wayne Loosigian at Colorado Outward Bound.

Heather Buchan participates in activities of Outward Bound.

Karen Nelson sets out on a strenuous hike.

Outward Bound was established because of Dr. Kurt Hahn's concern for "youth's increasing aimlessness, lack of involvement, and failure to mature into whole adults." He was convinced that a boy needs to learn for himself how much he is capable of physically, emotionally, and spiritually. The sight of the first Outward Bound School was Aberdovey, Wales where boys went through a rigorous seaman's training. In 1962 the first U.S. Outward Bound School was founded in Colorado and, by 1967, four more programs were in operation including one for women.

In the summer of 1966 I was a student at the Minnesota School. After being introduced to the program by a jog in the woods, a wade through a swamp, and a walk through rapids, all known as Quiet Walk, we were ready for anything. The memories are still very much alive. How does one forget the fear of being lost in the woods with only a map and a compass; or the complete exhaustion of swimming a mile, a quarter of which was with clothes on; or the sick feeling when, after twelve matches, the fire, the most important survival tool, still hasn't started. Then there is a sixteen day canoe trip of which three days were spent on the terrifying and much dreaded solo. This part is the most memorable and will never be forgotten.

"Outward Bound is not easy; it is not meant to be. It is something very good."

Varsity Club

Andover High's Varsity Club includes all two-year varsity lettermen and cheerleaders. Its purpose is to promote athletic interest and participation by the student body. Each year the club, which dates back to 1942, awards a $250 scholarship to a deserving athlete. This year, in addition to sponsoring the annual, semiformal Varsity Club Dance, the club has begun selling hot chocolate in the cafeteria before school. The club is advised by Mr. Richard Collins and is led by President Wayne Demers, Vice-President Joe Doherty, Secretary Lyn Deyermond, and Treasurer Nancy Dufton.

The Pep Club is comprised of all girls willing to support Andover High School at athletic events both home and away. Advised by Mrs. Madeline Simeone and led by President Betsy MacMackin, Vice-President Karoline Kennedy, Secretary Sue Stansfield, Treasurer Barbara Roman and Decoration Chairmen Ann Olney and Debbie Allen the club decorates the spectator and team buses before football games and sponsors the annual dance, Pep-o-rama.

The Andover High School Service Club is an organization of students who are willing to devote their time to serving the school and the community. This year the club entertained sick children with a Halloween party at a local hospital, brought gifts to AHS students who were in the hospital, decorated the school for Christmas, and visited veterans monthly at the Tewksbury State Hospital. Bakery sales and the annual Service Club dance provide funds necessary for the projects. Much of the club's success can be attributed to the guidance of its advisor, Mrs. Mary L. Coughlin, and to its officers—President, Sue Vanasse; Vice-President, Norma Randall; Secretary, Barbara Morloos; Treasurer, Carlene La Frenier; and Showcase Chairman, Deborah Allen.

Chess Club

Checkmate

A master contemplates his move.

This year the Chess Club entered its second year of existence. It is an informal club dedicated to the enjoyment of chess. The club's ten members meet within the school to comepte against each other and occasionally meet to compete with other schools such as North Andover.

Art Club

Through the vibrant and colorful leadership of the new student-teacher, Peter Thompson, a past graduate of AHS, presently a student at the Boston Museum School, and Miss Dalton, this year's art club has exploded from a pastel grey state of inactivity into the vividly bright world of artistic endeavors. Members have participated in a series of informal trips to Boston museums. Its meetings are actually group discussions where art students have golden opportunities to criticize each other's work freely.

Heart Transplant Keeps Man Alive in South Africa

As students in Andover High School toiled over mid year examinations, a California steel worker clung to life after undergoing a heart transplant operation which opened the door to a new and dramatic world of medicine. And, while those within Andover High School relaxed with a sigh of relief upon the completion of exams, the United States Armed Forces tensed in readiness for action while awaiting the outcome of the seizure of an American ship by the North Korean Navy.

We cheer our sports teams and feel that life is wonderful when they are victorious, while a military victory in Viet Nam leaves a young soldier mourning over the death of his equally young comrade. We watch an impressive new school approach completion two hundred yards away, while four thousand miles away, the population of Sicily watches its homes and schools fall to rubble.

In Andover High School we experience happiness and sadness, elation and depression. Yet, living our relatively protected lives, we know little of the insecurity, desperation or frustration of those who have no homes, no families, no food and, most important, no peace.

Before long, every student within the school, whether a sophomore, junior, or senior, must step outside the protective walls. Each one must leave behind the Friday night dances, the Saturday afternoon football games, the lunch table discussions, the five-minute breaks, the holiday assemblies, the after-school sessions at Ford's, and even the mid-year exams. There is a larger world than Andover High School's world and it is a world that needs young people.

We won't know how to handle every situation. We won't have all the necessary patience and understanding to meet all crises calmly. We won't have all the needed courage to fearlessly face conditions in the world. But we will not be unprepared to step forward. Three years behind Andover High School's protective walls have not been blind years. We have been in preparation, living our busy lives, but seeing also the lives outside which beckon to us for help.

The knowledge we have gained in studies and the subtler knowledge that we have absorbed at quieter, now perhaps forgotten, moments will remain with us when we have outgrown classrooms, cafeterias and crowded corridors.

In some year not too far in the future, it may well be the words of some teacher, the passage from some assigned book, the thoughts from some afternoon in detention, the insight gained from some experience with school friends which turns us toward the right direction.

When the larger world has become our world, this smaller world will have helped us accept the responsibility of being part of it.

The Golden Warriors Football squad provided everyone with a lot of thrills this year. They rebounded strongly after a first game defeat at the hands of a tough Wilmington team. Our boys fought and scraped their way out of the slump, losing only one of the eight remaining games. The team played in the Andover tradition, determined to win. One of the chief reasons for the success was the excellent coaching of Head Coach Richard Collins, along with his assistants, William Vickers and Drummond Bissett. There were many standout players. Ken Chlebowski and Steve Gesing were chosen Most Valuable Players, while Dave Paulekas and Wayne Demers received the Varsity Club Award. Among the other star players were Paul Hills, Bruce Robb, Mike Sirois, Mike Simeone, Randy Towne, Wayne Loosigian, and Tom O'Leary. To our cheerleaders and student body go the utmost thanks for their unfailing support.

The Cross Country team under the direction of Coach Joseph Dorsey and manager Ed Conlon, enjoyed a successful season. The Warriors compiled an admirable record of seven wins against two losses. Outstanding performances came from co-captains Steve Marden and Arthur Sadowski, as well as seniors Ed Dewhurst and Bob O'Brien. Surprise star was junior Gary Thomlinson, who placed in every meet for valuable points. In cross country, two or more teams of any number of runners cover a race course between 2.5 and 3 miles long, through woods, fields, and open roads. The team with the lowest score wins. A runner's only reward is sore legs, bursting lungs, and victory. The boys certainly deserve credit for their efforts.

The hockey team competed this year for the first time as a varsity sport. The enthusiasm shown by the boys has resulted in a wildly successful season. The Warriors completed roster of nine wins, five losses, finishing second in the league standings, and qualified for both the league playoffs and the state hockey tournament. Coach Charles Vars expressed happy surprise at the "exceptionally good job" the players have done, and looks forward to a league title next year. Consistently sharp members were Captain Jim Saunders at left wing, Lee Russem and Ken Musen on defense, and Robert Scott and Ed Rawlings in the goal. Star underclassmen were Chris Mundy, Jim Ganley, Jeff Morgan, Doug Grange, Mark Hockmeyer, and Jay Gottesfeld. In every way the hockey team has proved themselves a hard-working unit of which AHS can be proud.

The basketball team had what Coach Wilbur Hixon best described as "a heart-breaking" season. The boys were fairly consistent, but just couldn't seem to win "the big ones." The squad lost three games in overtime and two games by a two point margin. Despite all this, the team still finished up with a winning record. The most outstanding player was Captain Billy Muller. Defensively Bill averaged between eleven and twenty-three rebounds a game, and played more total minutes than any other player. High scorer was Peter Johnson, who, although missing five games because of injuries, still averaged twenty points a game. Other standouts were Dick Morrisey, Bill Spencer, Bill Donahue, Dicky Muller, David Lynch, Don Patullo, Peter Mullett, and Neil Davis, starting sophomore center. Much of the team's strength will be returning next year, and continuing success is anticipated. To Coach Hixon and the team members go our thanks for their many exciting games.

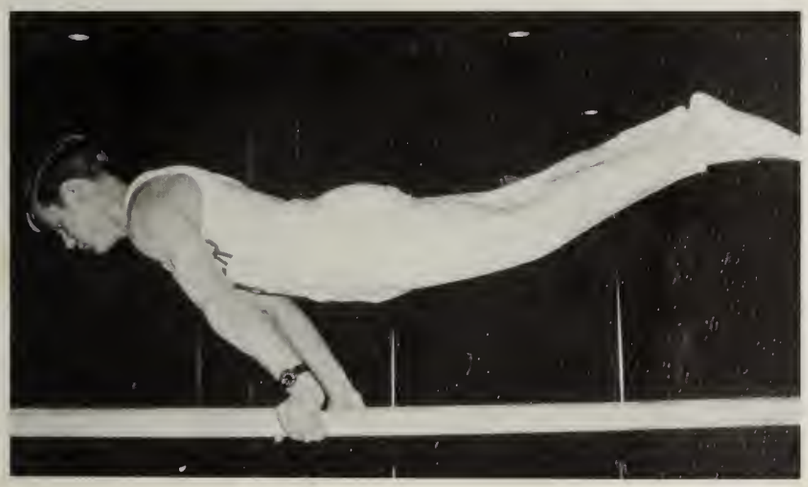
1968 State Champs

The Boys' Gymnastics team went undefeated in league competition this year. Coach Joseph Dorsey said he was "happy at some points" with the squad's performances, and felt that the team had as much potential as his 1962 team, which he regards as his best. The Coach also stated that the boys were "more versatile than ever before," and he was able to switch them to "loose spots" at random.

Gymnastics is of course an individualist sport, and some of this year's prominent members include "Chip" Roy and Dick Hatch on the rings, Pete Wojtkun on side horse, Lewie Trumbore and Dick Hatch on parallel bars, and Ken Chlebowski on long horse vaulting. Two promising junior stars are David Leong and Richard Seikunas.



Winter Track

Co-captain Dave Paulekas

The Winter Track team went undefeated in League competition to capture the Merrimack Valley Conference championship. The biggest challenge came against Lawrence, when Joe Broderick, Van Debose, Dave Paulekas, and Joe Doherty combined to win the relay in record time (2:21.0) and edge Lawrence by one point. In the State Meet, the Golden Warriors came within three points of beating Falmouth for the Class C title.

It was in this meet that Greg Markham set a new state indoor high jump of six feet, four and one-half inches. Team standouts were Randy Towne and Van Debose in the hurdles; Bruce Robb and Doug Thompson in the shot put; Greg Markham, Ed McCarthy, and Richard Lenier in the high jump; Joe Broderick in the 50 yd. dash, Dave Paulekas (300), Joe Doherty and Kevin Burke (600), Bob O'Brien and Ed Dewhurst (1,000), Steve Marden, Arthur Sadowski, and Gary Thomlinson in the mile. Congratulations go to Head Coach Richard Collins and Assistant Coach Frank Kennedy as well as co-captains Dave Paulekas and Joe Doherty for the development of this fine team.

Co-captains Joe Doherty and Dave Paulekas

Spring Track

The Spring Track team is looking forward to a victorious season as defending Conference champs. The toughest competition will be presented by Falmouth in the state meet. Our formidable squad will include Robb and Thompson (shot put), Markham and McCarthy (high jump), Peter Mullet (javelin), Doherty and Burke (broad jump).

In the running events will be Towne and Debose (hurdles), Broderick and Gillan (100 yd. dash), Paulekas (220), Doherty (440), Bisbee and Bull (880), Sadowski, Marden, Dewhurst, and Thomlinson (mile and two mile).

Baseball

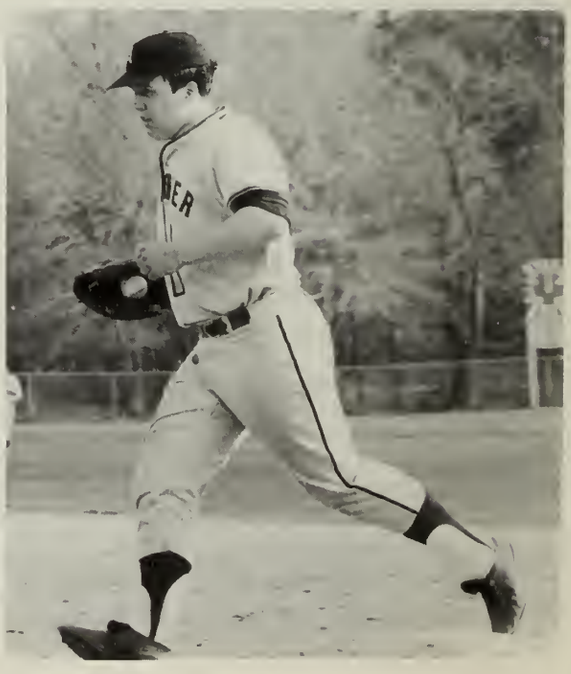
Coach Polgreen

When most people think of spring they think of baseball. The Andover High Baseball team, under the supervision of Coach Fred Polgreen and J. V. Coach William Vickers, has always enjoyed a large following of both players and fans. The team appears very strong except for pitching depth, and looks forward to a winning season. Returning veteran stars include Captain Mike Simeone, Ed Clukey, Ken Chlebowski, Joe Hadam, Chris Mundy, Jim Gillan, Sal Vacarro, Ken Musen, and Bruce Robb. Coach Polgreen hopes new members will give the regulars some tough competition for team positions and he will expect the same "spirit and hustle" that has become an Andover tradition.



Cheerleaders

Field Hockey

The Girls' Varsity Field Hockey Team rose to the occasion this season under their new coach Miss Bioren. The offense was led by Nancy Parisi, Kate Cormier, and Captain Pat Thompson, coordinated with the defense led by Mary Norris, Meri Hanson, Mickey Maesano and Betty Ferrier to finish with a 1-3-3 season.

The lead scorers for this year's team were Nancy Parisi and Captain Pat Thompson.

The Junior Varsity team finished with a 3-2-2 season led by such players as Beth Gower, Deidre and Bridget Robinson, Debbie Carver, and Donna Gulezian.

Both teams wish to thank Miss Bioren for her efforts and confidence.
